Peres: Build-Up of Army Essential to Deter Arabs

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The Deputy Minister of Defence, Mr. Shimon Peres, on Friday night declared that Israel's armed forces must be constantly strengthened and held ready as a deterrent to any attempt by the Arabs to disturb the peace of the area.

"We have to be sufficiently strong to dissuade them from attacking us," he said.

Speaking on "Israel Security Today" at a "Living Newspaper" in Beit Sokolov, Mr. Peres declared that Mr. Ben-Gurion's recent meetings with world statesmen should be seen as part of the campaign to strengthen Israel's security.

"But that is only part of the picture, for we must not regard ourselves as a militant state but as a nation under pressure of armed threats," he said.

Mr. Peres pointed out that the security problem prior to 1948 was quite different from the present one. Since the Sinai campaign, however, the "situation and its tensions are not so obvious. They must be examined under a microscope rather than with binoculars."

U.A.R. Forces at Peak

"The U.A.R. has brought its army to its highest level of organization, and with its modern equipment, has made it into a highly mobile, aggressive force," Mr. Peres warned.

"Weapons are changed every two years like women's fashions," he observed, adding that these arms were aimed not only at Israel but at the West.

This military build-up obliged Israel to cultivate friends amongst the great and small nations in the international arena. It is with this in mind that the journey of the Prime Minister must be understood.

'The Farm Surplus, Too Few Buyers'

KIN HAROD. — The weekend session of the Abba Eban-Kibbutz convention here was dominated by the address of the former Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Ben-Tsur, of Kibbutz Beit Neta, and of Minister of Agriculture Moshe Dayan.

Mr. Ben-Tsur denied the validity of the argument that the most pressing crisis facing agriculture today was that of overproduction. The problem was, he said, that the urban population did not consume enough food to buy the agricultural products that they might otherwise consume.

He also strongly attacked the constant interest rate which the kibbutzim were forced to pay on the loans they took to finance investments. He estimated the average cost of the movement's settlements at IL2,000 per family.

The Minister of Agriculture strongly denied barely hidden hints that he was prejudiced against the kibbutzim movement in favour of the moshavim. He promised that his ministry would take energetic steps to overcome the financial losses of the kibbutzim.
